

Passage II

The following paragraphs may or may not be in the most logical order. Each paragraph is numbered in brackets, and question 14 will ask you to choose where Paragraph 2 should most logically be placed.

My Father's Garden

When I was a boy growing up in Delhi, India, we had a kitchen garden behind our downstairs apartment. My father was an avid gardener, he still is:<sup>1</sup> and every Saturday morning he would put on his work clothes, pick up his hoe and trowel, and would head<sup>2</sup> out the back door. [3]

[2]

As a ten-year-old, I was supremely unenthusiastic about swinging a hoe in the garden when I could be out playing with my friends. Having tried and failed,<sup>4</sup> my father was unable to make a gardener of me.

I had no qualms, of course,<sup>5</sup> about enjoying the results of his labor: the potatoes, squash, cucumbers, and cauliflower that he pursued<sup>6</sup> out of the earth. I would even help him dig out the potatoes or cut a cucumber from its vine. To me, it was much more fun to reap than sowing.<sup>7</sup>

[3]

Many years later, living in an upstairs apartment, I am more often<sup>8</sup> sorry I didn't follow my father out to the garden. I have several indoor plants, but the experience is not the same. The few times that I've helped a friend with yard work has given<sup>9</sup> me the joy of touching the soil with an open palm, to get<sup>10</sup> the earth under my fingernails, of patting down the berm around a newly transplanted with him in the garden.

11

[4]

My favorite photograph of my father shows him squatting on his heels, trowel in hand, behind a golden heap of onions freshly pulled from the ground. 12

His glowing smile are evidence of his pride in the onions—the proof of his labor and love—and in me, the photographer, his son. In that photo, his love of the land and his love for me are somehow intertwined, indivisible. It is that same love—love of kin, love of land—that pushes under my fingernails, pushes against my skin, when I thrust my hand into the yielding earth and think that on its far side my father might be doing the same.

15. Suppose the writer had intended to write a brief essay showing how a value he holds as an adult is very different from what he felt as a child. Would this essay successfully fulfill the writer's goal?
- A. Yes, because the essay shows how the writer came to value gardening when this was something he had not appreciated as a child.
- B. Yes, because the essay shows that as an adult the writer finally learned to value his father's ability to be a good parent, when as a child he had not done so.
- C. No, because the focus of the essay is on the writer's father's values and not on the values of the writer himself.

- G. Yes, because it informs the reader that the writer is more than an amateur photographer.
- H. No, because it contradicts the writer's claim that the photograph he describes in the preceding sentence is one he also treasures.
